

GOV. HARRIS.

Sole Survivor of Ohio Senate of 1866-7.

Governor Harris received this telegram from H. Clay Drinkle of Lancaster, Saturday morning.

"The death of William Warner yesterday leaves you the only surviving member of the Ohio state senate, 1866-7."

Mr. Warner had been living in Alabama for years, and was one of the pioneer statesmen of Ohio. The records show that he represented the Licking county district in the state senate in 1844-5, and was sent back for two more terms in 1866-7, when Andrew L. Harris now governor of the state, represented the Preble county district in the senate.

Governor Harris still remembered General Warner well and was deeply affected by the news of his death, which carried his mind back to the days of 40 years ago. Warner was also a general in the army so that he and Governor Harris were not only colleagues in the fortunate debate, but served as comrades upon the gory fields of battle.

Governor Harris was 71 years old a week ago today, and General Warner must have been close to 90 years of age. He was first elected to the senate 62 years ago, and he must have been 21 years of age when he was elected to office, so that he was past 83 years of age when death occurred and probably much older.

Mr. Drinkle who sent the telegram to the governor was a page boy in the legislature during the sessions 1866-7, and has kept track of the passing away of the statesmen of those early days.

Dancing Proves Fatal

Many men and women catch colds at dances which terminate in pneumonia and consumption. After exposure, if Foley's Honey and Tar is taken it will break up a cold and no serious results need be feared. Refuse any but the genuine in a yellow package. Bort & Co.

SENATOR TILLMAN

Will Speak in Chicago Whether or no

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina, passed through Chicago today on his way to South Haven, Mich. When informed that the colored people of Chicago had protested against the delivery of a lecture by him in Chicago, he said:

"I am surprised that there should be any talk in this city of a negro uprising to prevent a lecture, which is for the benefit of a hospital, which has never yet closed its doors to one of the colored race."

"It is absurd for the colored people to think that they can prevent a senator of the United States from talking. They might as well try to stop President Roosevelt. I shall not change my lecture in the slightest degree. The subject is 'The Annexation of Cuba,' and this question is so interwoven with the negro problem of this country, that it will be impossible for me to avoid discussing the matter."

The Texas Wonder.

Cures All Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatic troubles; sold by all druggists, or two months treatment by mail, for $1. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Send for testimonials. July 19, '06, 1-yr.

MAYOR BADGER AFTER THEM

He is Sitting on the Lid Most Awfully

Four saloonkeepers were arrested yesterday for violating the Sunday closing law, and two men who had found leaks were arrested for standing too long under the spout.

The police went after the violators in plain clothes, a large portion of the force being assigned to this duty. Their work was thoroughly done, and last night Mayor Badger and Police Captain Dyer expressed their commendation in strong terms.

There were as large crowds in State and other downtown streets yesterday as a week ago and their efforts to get something to drink were even more futile than on the first dry Sunday. The usual alley-to-alley trips, except in isolated instances, brought no comfort to the distressed.

The Epworth League of the Broad Street M. E. church last night adopted strong resolutions of commendation for Mayor Badger. Similar action was taken by the Mt. Vernon Avenue M. E. Sunday school and at a temperance meeting of the same church in the afternoon a speaker from Cincinnati warmly commended the mayor, his order and its effect on the life of the city.

The first three arrests of saloonkeepers came in a bunch, and for a time the patrol wagon was kept busy. Then it slackened, and from early in the afternoon till after 9 o'clock last night the "lid" apparently was sealed.

This is Worth Remembering

As no one is immune, every person should remember that Foley's Cure will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Bort & Co.

"Law is Plain; Must Obey"

"The law is plain; I cannot change the law even if I wished to, and I do not, and all you have to do is to obey it," was the remark of Mayor Badger to P. D. Connelly who has a saloon on Denison avenue.

Connelly, who is commonly known as "Pod," with Dick Evans and William McDevitt, had called to see the mayor in regard to running the "Hickory" club on Sundays. They told what they wanted, and his honor's reply was very brief.

In substance it was that he would not change his order about Sunday, for the order was issued to stay; that these men knew the law and would have to obey it. One of them remarked as he went out, "We'll have to quit it then."

Before their call upon the mayor Connelly had been to see the city solicitor in reference to a suit he had against Sergeant Wolfel.

The New Pure Food and Drug Law.

We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. Bort & Co.

HOW HEARST WAS DEFEATED

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The charge during the recent campaign in this state, that Charles E. Hughes was Wall street's candidate for governor against W. R. Hearst, is verified by the statement of the Republican state committee, just filed, that $332,911 was spent during the late campaign.

Among the contributors were: J. P. Morgan, $30,000; L. P. Morton & Co., $20,000; Timothy L. Woodruff, $10,000; Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., $5000; C. M. Depew and Lieutenant Governor Frank W. Higgins, $2500 each.

We have secured the agency for Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup, the new laxative that makes the liver lively, purified the breath, cures headache and regulates the digestive organs. Cures chronic constipation. Ask us about it. Bort & Co.

Probate Notice

Notice is hereby given that the following Accounts and Vouchers have been filed in the Probate Court of Hocking County, Ohio, for first and final settlement, Oscar Davis, Administrator de bonis non with the Will annexed of estate of Henry Davis, deceased, and the same will come on for hearing on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1906, at 10 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as may be convenient.

DEMOCRATS

Start a Crusade Against the Liquor Interests.

The Franklin county Democrats, who were double-crossed by the brewery and saloon interests in the last election have declared their intention of inaugurating a campaign for the enforcement of all the laws against the saloons. They will demand as an organization that the midnight closing law shall be enforced, that there shall be no saloons open on Sunday, that saloonkeepers who sell liquor to minors shall be vigorously prosecuted, that the women's wine parlors shall go; in short, that saloonkeepers must in the future obey the State laws and the city ordinances the same as any other citizen.

The sentiment against the brewery combine is very strong. It is made clear to every one that the brewery and saloon people had knifed the Democratic ticket from top to bottom in order to carry out their deal with the Dick-Forsaker senatorial combine and give every possible aid to the senatorial machine.

"The brewery saloon crowd have made monkeys of us," said one Democratic leader, and we are certainly good and weary of having to bear the odium of being friendly to them while they give their votes and money to the Republican machine and defeat our party candidates."

This Democratic movement against the brewery interests is widespread throughout the State, but nowhere is it so intense as in Franklin county. The brewery saloon crowd is badly frightened and since the election has made several efforts to patch up the trouble but without success.

The Democrats are going right ahead in their campaign for law enforcement. They say the first move will be to close saloons on Sunday and the enforcement of the midnight closing law.

GOVERNOR HARRIS

Comes Out in Favor of Income and Inheritance Tax.

Governor Andrew Harris has come out squarely in favor of an income tax, and also favors the re-enactment of the inheritance tax law, providing it can be made less objectionable than the one repealed and less burdensome. He thinks that was the unpopular feature of the old law. The state tax commission is to work these propositions out.

Ohio Not a Dollar in Debt.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 16.—The end of the fiscal year shows Ohio to be in the best condition financially in its history, with a total cash balance of $3,746,033.04 and not a dollar in debt, excepting the irreducible debt, which cannot be paid. This is divided into the following funds: General revenue, $2,899,901.24; sinking fund, $425,554.17; common schools, $236,291.37; university, $162,770.44. This condition is brought about by the heavy increase in the liquor tax to $1,000. The state's proportion from this revenue at the July settlement amounted to $1,392,046.18, while the settlement for the same period last year, when it was $350, was $664,354.95.

Cured of Bright's Disease

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elnora N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve or twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's disease." Bort & Co.

INVALID HEROES.

Great Men Who Did Great Things in Spite of Infirmary.

A record of the magnificent courage of the world's invalid heroes is Sophia P. Shaler's book, "The Masters of Fate." One of these heroes was Green, the English historian, who could sign himself, "Faithfully (feebly, weakly, dizzily, mopey, faintly, dreamily, dully), J. R. Green." Another was Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote, "I am about knocked out of time now; a miserable, snuffling, shivering, fever-stricken, nightmare ridden, knee tottering, hoarse-hoarse-hoarse shadow and remains of a man."

"But," continues Stevenson, "the medicine bottles on my chimney and the blood on my handkerchief are accidents. They do not color my view of life." It was an octogenarian United States senator who, when asked for rules for longevity, replied, "Acquire a chronic ailment in youth, and nurse yourself through life—and work." Kant furnishes a lesson of this kind. Although the great metaphysician was never entirely well, he performed a prodigious amount of intellectual work and lived to be eighty years of age. "He obtained such control over his disfigurement," writes Mrs. Shaler, "that when suffering from a pain in his head he could concentrate his mind so perfectly on a chosen subject that the pain was treated as if it did not exist. By sheer force of will he would also overcome sleeplessness, caused by rheumatic attacks. 'That these,' he says, 'were not imaginary pains was proved by the glowing redness which was seen the next morning on the toes of my left foot.'"

That pitiful account which Johnson gives of Pope's physical condition rests upon the authority of an old servant of Lord Oxford, who knew him after middle age. "He was then so weak as to stand in perpetual need of attendance. He was extremely sensitive to cold, so that he wore a kind of fur doublet under a shirt of coarse, warm linen, with fine sleeves. When he arose he was invested in bodices made of stiff canvas, being scarcely able to hold himself erect till they were laced, and then he put on a flannel waistcoat. One side of his body was contracted. His legs were so slender that he enlarged their bulk with two pairs of stockings."

Great soldiers have borne afflictions they could neither overcome nor avoid. "Some of the world's foremost commanders—Julius Caesar, Napoleon, the Duke of Wellington and Archduke Charles of Austria—appear to have been epileptics. At the battle of Wagram the archduke, it is said, had a seizure which lasted about an hour. It was then that Napoleon gained the ascendancy. At the critical moment the fate of two great armies was in the hands of two epileptics. Cambray, the conqueror of Egypt; Alfred the Great and two of the greatest poets of Europe—Tasso and Byron—were subject to this disease, as was also the prophet Mohammed."

WINNING COURTESY.

The Charm and the Wisdom of the Art of Saying "Thank You."

The art of saying "Thank you" is one of the most charming accomplishments any one can acquire. Unfortunately it is a lost or forgotten art with many otherwise well bred and lovable individuals, and it is a pity that so many find it such a difficult task to frame these two simple words. Too many take any courtesies or favors which may be extended entirely as matters of course. Maybe we said "Thank you" or its equivalent very heartily and sincerely the first time the small boy next door did an errand for us, but as the small boy continued to run our errands and with the utmost willingness apparently we gradually got into the habit of accepting his courtesy as a matter of course, and after a little we never thought it necessary to thank him or only did it perfunctorily. Indeed we probably began to think our willing neighbor could do our errands just as well as not, and it is not at all unlikely that we should bitterly resent his refusal to do so. The least any one can do is to say "Thank you" for a favor or courtesy, whether extended by those with whom we come into daily contact or by strangers.

The most disagreeable people imaginable and the most selfish and disgusting are those who take anything at the hands of another without showing any appreciation. True, most courtesies are extended with no hope nor desire for remuneration or appreciation, but nevertheless every person ought to consider it a bounden duty to give a tangible expression of his appreciation for courtesies or favors, no matter how small. Even a cur will wag his tail at a kind word or a pat of the hand. Why should humans do less? Nevertheless this art of saying "Thank you" is not at all common, and there are people who will take any service or gift without a word, or perchance on great occasions they will unbend far enough to utter a grunt. Sad to say, it is not unusual, with shame be it said, to run across persons who are not a bit shy about finding fault if you don't do enough for them. It is a wise policy to cultivate a due appreciation of favors and to learn to give audible expression to them. The practice of saying "Thank you" does far more for the one who says it than for him who receives it. — Pittsburgh Press.

No Weapons Required.

The railway platform at Heidelberg was crowded with hurrying people of many nationalities, but the American traveler from Connecticut, who was trying to reach his family, felt that one man pushed against him with unnecessary roughness.

"See here," he said, turning on the offender, "you stop jostling me that way."

He had hardly expected his words to be understood, but the young man whom he had accosted drew himself up haughtily and said in excellent English, tinged by a slight German accent:

"I am at your service, sir, at any time and place."

"Well, now, that's something like it," said the traveler, hooking his arm into the haughty young man's. "You carry this grip of mine and take me to a good hotel. You're just the man I've been looking for and didn't know how to find."

Royal Builders.

Both Ludwig II. of Bavaria and Stanislas, the Polish king, father-in-law of Louis XIV., were most inveterate builders. In the course of a few years the former built the castle of Neuschwanstein and the palace of Linderhof and Herrenchiemsee, the latter intended by him to be a monument to Louis Quatorze, while the latter, to gratify his hobby, demolished churches, chapels, ducal palaces, castle towers and town homes. His greatest glory, according to some, is the church of Notre Dame de Bon Secours. But antiquarians see in this church the king's greatest crime, for to construct it he demolished the famous old church of the same name erected by the Duke of Lorraine in gratitude for his victory over Charles, duke of Burgundy, in 1477.

Unequal Human Eyes.

Many persons who think their sight perfect have a greater visual power in one eye than in the other. With regard to the respective power of the right and left eye, a well known optician finds that a person occupied in writing all day has, as a rule, stronger vision in the left. Writing with the right hand, and his left arm resting on the table, his left eye is nearer his work, and its vision is more concentrated. This expert says our race will never become so short sighted as the German while outdoor athletic games are encouraged in our public schools.

Many Languages of Buenos Ayres.

There are few cities in the world having more newspapers of varied tongues than Buenos Ayres. Altogether the number of dailies, weeklies, monthlies and irregulars published in the republic fluctuates about 180. Besides, of course, the "national" language, with its wide divergences from Spanish, there are papers published in Castilian, in Catalan, in Italian, French, German and English, in Basque, in Norwegian and in Danish, in Arabic, Syrian, Hebrew, Serbian and in several dialects, while in the Chubut territory the Welsh organ has a considerable sale and influence. — Buenos Ayres Herald.

"Long Ed's" Outfit.

When it was noised about Seymour that "Long Ed" Ames was going to marry Cora Black one of the summer residents thought to have some fun with him.

"Are you going to get married, Ed?"

"That's what Cora says."

"Well, I suppose you've made all the preparations—got your troussseau ready?"

"Long Ed" did not balk at the unusual word, as was expected.

"Yep," he returned; "Aunt Lize she bound my Sunday coat and put a new collar on't, and I've had my shoes tapped." — Youth's Companion.

Peach Growing in New Jersey.

I do not believe there is a section in north Jersey that would not grow peaches, but ordinarily good, luscious loaves are capable of producing a large tree, with the capacity for giving a large quantity of first class fruit. This character of soil makes handsome returns. While our deep sandy soils—the soil that is of little value for the staple crops—will produce fruit, in smaller quantities to be sure, of the highest eating and selling qualities—fruit that will compare favorably in size, flavor and color with any mountain fruit—I wish to emphasize the fact that these sandy, semibarren tracts of south Jersey sand can be turned into profitable investments through the agency of the peach. If the trees are sufficiently fed, the natural deficiency of plant food being furnished, the results are most gratifying. — Joseph Barton.

Must Depend on Farmers.

We must depend on the farmer who will raise at least a few horses each year in connection with other lines of live stock production and grain growing for our supply of horses. The small farmer who does not have land enough to keep mares for breeding purposes exclusively should aim to use mares for work purposes and breed them. This will cause some inconvenience in getting the farm work done, but more healthy, normal colts are produced in this way than when the mares are allowed to run idle. If the mares are worked they will not suffer from lack of exercise, and the foal is more apt to be grown properly the first summer.

UNDERWRITING FIRMS RAIDED

Alleged by Federal Officials to Be Fraudulent Concerns.

HAD EXTENSIVE BUSINESS

Plan by Which the Reputed Swindle Was Carried On Said to Have Netted the Promoters Nearly a Million Dollars — Accused Men When Arraigned Gave Bond.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—United States officials raided several underwriting companies here, alleged to be fraudulent concerns. The companies are accused of promoting fraudulent enterprises. According to the federal authorities the men accused of operating the scheme had many victims and realized nearly a million.

The names of the persons arrested and the companies with which the federal officers say they are connected follow: W. J. Root, president; W. H. Welch, vice president, and W. D. Hulbert, secretary of the Central States Underwriting and Guarantee company; Charles Endicott Brown, president of the Prudential Securities corporation, brokers; Frank S. Winslow, president American Corporation and Security company; Ezra C. Barnum, president National Stock and Guaranty company and the Bankers' Credit and Mercantile company; David C. Owings, National Stock and Guaranty company.

The postal authorities say the underwriting companies were in league with certain of the brokers, with whom they divided the fee taken for the supposed underwriting, which was never done.

The authorities further assert that in each case the underwriting company was given a fee, and that in many cases the officers representing the company seeking the underwriting office by the front door before the broker who introduced the capitalist would enter through another entrance and get half of the underwriting fee, and the underwriting venture would then be closed by the underwriters and the broker, no attempt being made to sell the stock. The government officials say that the men arrested never entered into a proposition in which less than $100,000 was involved, and that they in many cases obtained as much as $5,000,000 worth of stock to underwrite.

Hulbert, Root and Welch were taken to the United States district court and gave bonds of $5,000 each for their appearance for trial.

Russian Scandal.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—A scandal in connection with the distribution of government funds for the relief of the famine-stricken provinces, entailing the purchase of great quantities of grain, is being aired in the liberal press, which charges that a contract for $5,000,000 worth of wheat at a price of 4 cents per bushel above the market rate was given to an obscure individual named Lidval, and whose only recommendation was his private friendship with M. Gurko, vice minister of the interior, who is in charge of the famine relief. It is insinuated that Lidval was merely a street bidder acting for Gurko.

Hammering Count Witte.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—Since his return to Russia, Count Witte has been showered with abuse and attacked on all sides. A campaign to discredit him and prevent his ever returning to power is openly in progress. The Socialist press has given him the lie direct on the subject of his declaration that he had no communication with the workmen's council during his premiership, and high officials of the government are furnishing material for attacks upon him.

Police Used Maxim Gun.

Odesa, Nov. 21.—A desperate attempt was made here by a band said to be composed of social revolutionists to murder the commissary of the Odesa police. The band did not detect until the police had opened fire on it with a maxim gun, killing three men and wounding three more. The others escaped. Another band composed of terrorists seized $2,000 in the office of the Russian Navigation company. Before taking this money the band killed a police official.

Panic in Paris Playhouse.

Paris, Nov. 21.—There was a slight panic in Sarah Bernhardt's theater shortly before midnight. A short circuit of wires exploded the incandescent lights and plunged the house in darkness, whereupon the audience rushed for the doors, and there were cries of fire. The coolness of the actors and attendants, however, soon restored calm, but not before one woman had been severely and several slightly hurt.

Feltner Trial Postponed.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 21.—At Beatyville, Lee county, Ky., the trial of Moses Feltner of Hamilton, O., ex-Breathitt feudist, charged with originating plots to assassinate Judge James Hargis, was continued until next Tuesday on account of the absence of Commonwealth witnesses. Feltner says that although he fears death, he will remain in the mountains until the case is ended.

Teachers Talk Strike.

Marion, O., Nov. 20.—The school teachers of Marion county say they will strike if their demands to the township board of trustees are not satisfied. They claim that under the new law they are entitled to $40 a month besides $2 a month for janitor work and $10 for attendance at the annual institute. The trustees refuse to obey the new law, claiming that it is unconstitutional, and will pay the teachers only $30 a month.
